

Contents

|      |   |
|------|---|
| ix   | List of Illustrations   |
| xi   | Acknowledgments   |
| xiii | Preface   |
| 3    | Introduction  |
| 31   | PART I: Neorealism Proper   |
| 33   | 1. Rossellini's Open City : The Founding                           |
| 54   | 2. De Sica's Bicycle Thief : Casting Shadows on the Visionary City |
| 76   | 3. De Santis's Bitter Rice : A Neorealist Hybrid                   |
| 96   | 4. De Sica's Umberto D : Dark Victory for Neorealism               |
| 119  | PART II: Transitions  |
| 121  | 5. Comencini's Bread, Love, and Fantasy : Consumable Realism       |
| 144  | 6. Fellini's La strada : Transcending Neorealism                   |
| 164  | 7. Visconti's Senso : The Risorgimento According to Gramsci        |
| 188  | 8. Antonioni's Red Desert : Abstraction as the Guiding Idea        |
| 209  | PART III: Return to Social Commentary                                     |
| 211  | 9. Olmi's Il posto : Discrediting the Economic Miracle             |

|     |   |
|-----|---|
| 228 | 10. Germi's Seduced and Abandoned : Inside the Honor Code                                |
| 245 | 11. Pasolini's Teorema : The Halfway Revolution  |
| 263 | 12. Petri's Investigation of a Citizen above Suspicion : Power as Pathology              |
| 283 | PART IV: Fascism and War Reconsidered   |
| 285 | 13. Bertolucci's The Conformist : A Morals Charge  |
| 313 | 14. Wertmuller's Love and Anarchy : The High Price of Commitment                         |
| 339 | 15. Rosi's Christ Stopped at Eboli : A Tale of Two Italies                               |
| 360 | 16. The Taviani Brothers' Night of the Shooting Stars : Ambivalent Tribute to Neorealism |
| 391 | 17. Scola's We All Loved Each Other So Much : An Epilogue                                |
| 423 | Bibliography of Works Consulted   |
| 437 | Index   |